Stevens Pavilion named Office Development of Year

Stevens Pavilion in Edmonds recently was awarded the Office Development of the Year Award from the Washington State Chapter of the Society of Industrial and Office Realtors.

With its sky-lit atrium and centralized waiting area, the three-story, 80,000-square-foot medical office building on the Stevens Hospital campus was deemed an outstanding example of cutting-edge office development, according to a news release issued by the hospital.

The award recently was presented to Joel Hadfield, former executive director of business development for Stevens Healthcare, and to John Teutsch founder of Teutsch Partners LLC, a key partner in developing the pavilion, which opened for service in August.
